Dear Mr. Sheehan:

I am submitting this letter to you in an effort to report Xerox' manufacturer take back program with respect to desktop printers that we offer for sale. The printers meet the definition of consumer electronic devices in Utah because they can be purchased by household users or home office businesses.

Xerox offers through its web site a return process that enables our consumers the option of returning Xerox branded CED to their nearest Staples Office Superstore. If that is not convenient for them, they can also request to mail their CED to a contracted recycler via a toll-free number that is posted on our web site.
