UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

BOBBIE A. MEYER-PIPER

Bobbie A. Meyer-Piper is the Curriculum Director for the United States Air Force Chief Leadership Course, Barnes Center for Enlisted Education, Maxwell AFB, Alabama. She is responsible for the design, development, relevance, and currency of curriculum designed to inspire the critical thought necessary to develop Chief Master Sergeants into strategic-level leaders who focus on life-long learning, global awareness, and an enterprise perspective while effectively leading, managing, and mentoring today's Airmen.

Prior to her current position, Ms Meyer-Piper spent almost seven years as a Defense researcher and Instructional Designer with Booz Allen Hamilton, and prior to that she spent 27 years as an active-duty military member, retiring at the rank of Chief Master Sergeant in 2010.

As a defense researcher, she developed several on-line and blended courses and assessment measure for various United States Air Force organizations to include the Air Force Negotiations Center, the Air Force Culture and Language Center, and the Center for Unconventional Weapons Studies (renamed to Center for Strategic Deterrence Studies).

While she was active duty, Ms Meyer-Piper served in the career fields of Financial Services and Professional Military Education. Positions she held include Financial Services Officer, Deputy Disbursing Officer, Comptroller Superintendent, Chief of Accounting Liaison and Chief of Military Pay, as well as Instructor, Squad leader, and Director of Programs at the Air Force Senior Noncommissioned Officer Academy. She also deployed twice for humanitarian missions, once as a Deputy Comptroller for Operation SHINING HOPE and as a Paying Agent for Operation PROVIDE COMFORT. Ms. Meyer-Piper is a graduate of the Air Force Financial Staff Officer course and every level of enlisted professional education culminating with the CMSgt Leadership Course. In July 2017 she transitioned to government civil service into her current position.
