

Complementary and integrative health care for pain

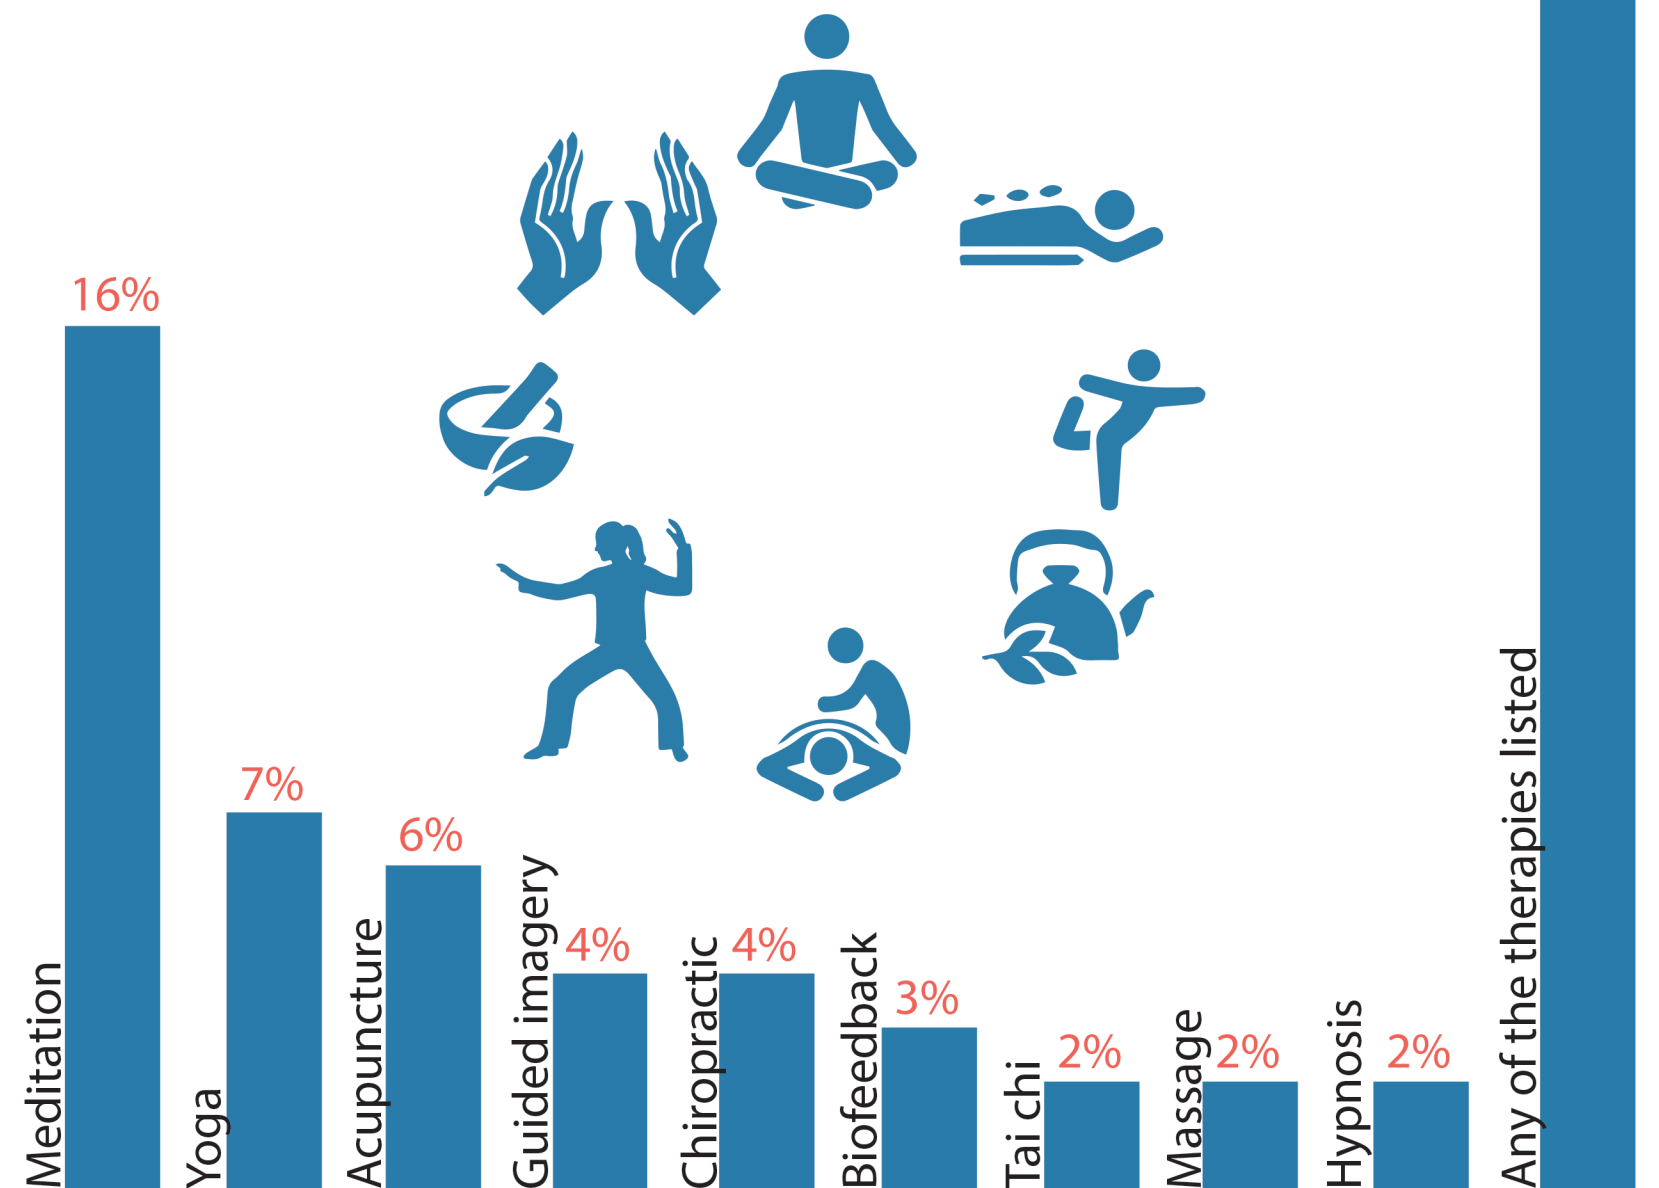

VA researchers studied the use of complementary and integrative health care among more than 540,000 Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans with diagnoses of chronic musculoskeletal pain.

Types of pain*

*Veterans could have more than one

Types of therapy used*

*Veterans may have used none or a combination of any of the above, or another CIH therapy not included in the study. Results reflect services as noted in patients' VA records. Services provided mostly in VA.