(3) Any order under subsection (1) may prescribe what crimes shall be deemed to be extradition crimes for the purposes of the order and this Act.

4. If it appears to the Minister that the law of a country to which section 3 applies no longer contains reciprocal provisions or that an arrangement with any country referred to in the said section 3 is no longer in force, the Minister may by statutory instrument discontinue the application of this Act to that country.

5. Where this Act applies in the case of any country, every fugitive criminal of that country who is in or suspected of being in Botswana shall be liable to be apprehended and surrendered in the manner provided by this Act, whether the crime in respect of which the surrender is sought was committed before or after the commencement of this Act or the application of this Act to that country, and whether there is or is not any concurrent jurisdiction in a court of Botswana over that crime.

6. (1) Every person who is accused or convicted of having counselled, procured, commanded, aided or abetted the commission of any extradition crime, or being an accessory before or after the fact to any extradition crime, shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be accused or convicted of having committed that crime, and shall be liable to be apprehended and surrendered accordingly.

- (j) a fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered to any country unless provision is made by the law of that country, or by arrangement, that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has been restored or had an opportunity of returning to Botswana, be detained or tried in that country for any offence committed prior to his surrender other than the extradition crime proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded;
- (k) a fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered until the expiration of 15 days from the date of being committed to prison, to await his surrender,.

9. (1) Where the surrender of a fugitive criminal is sought under this Act, and it appears to a magistrate that by reason of the trivial nature of the case, or by reason of the application for the surrender of the fugitive criminal not being made in good faith in the interests of justice or otherwise, it would, having regard to the distance, to the facilities of communication, and to all the circumstances of the case, be unjust or oppressive, or too severe a punishment, to surrender the fugitive criminal whether at all or until the expiration of a certain period, the magistrate may discharge the prisoner either absolutely or on bail, or order that he shall not be surrendered until after the expiration of the period named in the order, or may make such order in the matter as the magistrate thinks proper.

(2) Any order or refusal to make an order of discharge under this section shall be subject to appeal.

14. (1) Subject to the provision of section 7, in the case of a fugitive criminal accused an extradition crime, if the foreign warrant authorising the arrest of the criminal is duly authenticated, and such evidence is produced as, subject to the provisions of this Act, would, according to the law of Botswana, justify the committal for trial of the prisoner if the crime of which he is accused was committed in Botswana, the magistrate shall commit him to prison.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 7, in the case of a fugitive criminal alleged to have been convicted of an extradition crime if such evidence is produced as, subject to the provisions of this Act, would, according to the law of Botswana, prove that the prisoner was convicted of such crime, the magistrate shall commit him to prison.

- (b) the certificate of the Attorney- General or his representative in the requesting country that he is satisfied that the evidence establishes "a sufficient" case to be tried in the courts of the requesting country, and that the evidence specified in the record exists and has been preserved for trial.

(5) A certificate of the Attorney-General or his representative in the requesting country accompanying the record shall be admitted without proof of the signature or authority of the person appearing to have issued it.

(6) Where a record of a case prepared in accordance with the provisions of this section has been transmitted to a magistrate, the magistrate shall consider the whole of its contents and without deciding whether the matters therein contained would be admissible under the laws of Botswana, may commit the fugitive criminal to prison to await his surrender if the matters recited in the record of the case, and any other evidence admissible under the law of Botswana, would be sufficient to warrant a trial of the charges for which the surrender has been requested.
