and have been the foundation upon which it rests. Smithsonian collections are a national and global resource accessed each year by millions of visitors and researchers who use traditional methods and cutting-edge technologies to explore subjects from aeronautics to zoology. Through its collections, the Smithsonian presents the astonishing record of American and international artistic, historical, cultural, and scientific achievement, with a scope and depth no other institution in the world can match.

Smithsonian collections contribute to population recovery of endangered species, advances in reproductive biology, genome resource banking, medical research, forensic analysis, bio-security, and conservation policy worldwide.

Assembled over more than 160 years, the collections are central to the core activities and to the vitality and significance of the Smithsonian.

Part V, line 4:

The Endowment includes approximately 600 individual endowment funds. The Endowment provides stable financial support for scholarship, research activities, other programs, acquisitions of collections and other Institutional activities. It plays a critical role in enabling the Institution to achieve its mission - "the increase and diffusion of knowledge." The Endowment includes both donor-restricted endowment funds and funds designated by the Board of Regents to function as endowments.

Classification and reporting of net assets associated with the Endowment reflect donor-imposed restrictions.

Part I, Line 2:

The Office of Fellowships has central management and administrative responsibility for the Smithsonian programs of research fellowships and other academic appointments for undergraduate, graduate students, postdoctoral and senior scholars. The Smithsonian Institution Fellowship Program is a competitive fellowship program for graduate and postdoctoral fellows, who apply to conduct research at the Institution with research staff serving as advisors. The review process is made up of disciplinary committees comprised of the Institution's staff who evaluate the candidates and then select the fellows. There are other competitive and non-competitive fellowships, visiting scholar and student appointees selected through the Smithsonian units that go through a variety of other selection processes before an award is made. An official letter/agreement is provided to each award recipient identifying the award title, dates of tenure, stipend allowances, and required responsibilities for holding this position. All recipients either will identify a financial institution for receipt of their monetary award or they will receive US Treasury checks. Depending on the tenure of the appointment, payments can range from one lump sum, biweekly payments or monthly payments. Most fellowship appointments are awarded for one to two years. On occasion, the Smithsonian Institution has visiting scholars or fellows who are conducting research in another country. Payments are usually submitted as stated above, however, on occasion, there may be one or two who request that their payments be sent to the country of their research. At the end of tenure, a final report of their research accomplishments is provided for our records. Smithsonian research staff who serve as advisors to these fellows, students and scholars are usually in the field during their tenure. The eight Smithsonian research centers located in the United States and one located in Panama monitor the progress of their fellows especially those fellows in other countries, and the administrative management of funds is managed through the Institution's central administration for accountability.

Program services for research and conferences include travel related expenditures. Only travel essential to the performance of official Smithsonian business, whether by SI employees, research associates, or invitational travelers (i.e., individuals who are not SI employees), and for which travel-related expenses are to be paid by the Smithsonian, can be approved, authorized, and reimbursed.

Investments in regions include investments in foreign partnerships and foreign corporations. The foreign region is determined by the country whose laws govern the investment entity. The value reported represents the fair market value of the investment at the end of the fiscal year.

Per Form 990 instructions, stipends are reported on Schedule F if the person receiving the stipend is living or residing outside the United States at the time the stipend is paid or distributed. However, many of these stipend recipients later traveled to the Smithsonian in the United States to perform their research.

candidates and then select the fellows. There are other competitive and non-competitive fellowships, visiting scholar and student appointees selected through the Smithsonian units that go through a variety of other selections processes before an award is made. An official letter/agreement is provided to each award recipient identifying the award title, dates of tenure, stipend allowances, and required responsibilities for holding this position. All recipients either will identify a financial institution for receipt of their monetary award or they will receive US Treasury checks. Depending on the tenure of the appointment, payments may be made in a lump sum or in periodic payments. Most fellowship appointments are awarded for one to two years. At the end of tenure, a final report of their research accomplishments is provided for our records. Smithsonian research staff who serve as advisors to these fellows, students and scholars are usually in the field during their tenure. The individual Smithsonian research centers monitor the progress of their fellows, and the funds are managed through the Institution's central administration to ensure accountability. Similiar processes are followed for awards made to organizations whose academic staff perform the related research.

Part I, Line 6:

Incentive Plan

Certain employees of Smithsonian Enterprises (SE) are eligible to participate in the Smithsonian Enterprises Management Incentive Plan. This eligibility is determined on an annual basis. Even if eligible to participate, a performance review rating of "Fully Successful" must be received. The Plan includes both financial and individual (operational) goals, and these goals must be met in order to receive an incentive payment. There are different performance levels, with each successive level giving a higher incentive payment. In addition, the eligible person must be employed by the organization on the last day of the fiscal year in order to receive payment. Approvals for incentive payments are tiered; any payment to a senior executive is reviewed by the Secretary, with the Regents (either the Compensation Committee or the Full Board) approving incentive payments to any disqualified person, any direct report to the Secretary, and any executive with total cash above an annually determined threshold. The Regents have delegated to the Secretary the authority to approve other executive incentive payments. For non-executives, the

Among the major scientific discoveries this year was the announcement of the identities of four men buried within Jamestown's historic 1608 church. These people, Rev. Robert Hunt, Capt. Gabriel Archer, Sir Ferdinando Wainman and Capt. William West, were high-status leaders who helped shape the future of America during the initial phase of the Jamestown colony. After being lost to history for more than 400 years, this discovery reveals new clues about life, death and the importance of religion in America's first permanent English settlement.

Smithsonian scientists and the Jamestown Rediscovery Foundation used archaeology, skeletal analyses, chemical testing, 3D technology and genealogical research to determine the identities of the men through their unearthed bones.

In fossil news, Smithsonian scientists discovered a new genus and species of river dolphin that has long been extinct. The fossil which dates from 5.8-6.1 million years ago was found along the Caribbean coast of Panama. The fossil will be conserved and recorded using the latest 3D technology.

The most popular living animal at the Smithsonian is Bei Bei (Bay-Bay). The giant panda cub was born on August 22, 2015 at the National Zoo. Bei Bei's name, which means "precious treasure" was selected by First Lady of the United States Michelle Obama and First Lady of the People's Republic of China, Peng Liyuan. Bei Bei made his public debut on January 16, 2016.

which will be on exhibit when the museum opens in September 2016. The museum also acquired more than 400 photographs from the Eyejammie

Hip-Hop Collection. The images will contribute to the museum's arts and entertainment collection, designed to explore how cultural movements like hip-hop influenced the nation.

American History opened "American Enterprises" which tells the nation's business story in an 8,000-square-foot gallery that is the anchor exhibition in the museum's new Innovation Wing, which includes 600 objects, images, hands-on activities and videos. "American Enterprise" chronicles the tumultuous interaction of capitalism and democracy that resulted in the continual remaking of American business--and American life. Through captivating objects and engaging interactive displays, visitors can trace the country's development from a small, dependent agricultural nation to one of the world's most vibrant economies.

The exhibition provides the opportunity for visitors to experience Waterston's creation alongside the original Peacock Room, which is a permanent showpiece of the adjacent Freer Gallery of Art.

Smithsonian's Anacostia Community Museum's 30th Annual Martin Luther King Jr. Program featured a talk by the director of the Immigrant Rights and Racial Justice program at Washington's Center for Community Change. The talk addressed "The Beloved Community," Martin Luther King Jr.'s vision for America as an integrated society promoting love, economic opportunity, social equity and justice for all.

The Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture and the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund presented a panel discussion celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The annual Garden Fest, highlights each of the Smithsonian's gardens and connects people to plants through engaging hands-on activities and educational demonstrations. This year's 9th Garden Fest program celebrated National Public Gardens Day with an array of activities focused on the important roles that pollinators play in food and ecosystems. Visitors explored the history of honey bees, learned what they can do to attract pollinators to their own garden and participated in multiple hands-on activities.
