Publication of Summons to Defendant Yu Cao

NOTICE! You have been sued.
The court may decide against you without your being heard unless you respond within 30 days. Read the information below.
You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court.

There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association. NOTE: The court has a statutory lien for waived fees and costs on any settlement or arbitration award of $10,000 or more in a civil case. The court's lien must be paid before the court will dismiss the case.

Newest Isle thought he was 'gonna be a Canuck for life'

By ETHAN SEARS

Bo Horvat got the news at Disneyland.

The newest member of the Islanders was enjoying a vacation with his family before going to All-Star Weekend when his phone started to blow up with the news that he had been traded from the Canucks. He knew that was a possibility, taking an extra moment to take in the atmosphere at Rogers Arena after Friday's game against Chicago before coming off the ice.

"I'd be lying if I said it didn't cross my mind exiting the ice at Rogers there, that could've been my last game at Rogers Arena," Horvat said on a Zoom call Monday after the Islanders dealt Anthony Beauvillier, Aatu Raty and a top-12 protected first-round pick to the Canucks for his services. "It was a little bit of emotion running through me, obviously just not knowing what was gonna happen. I'm glad I got to soak it in a little bit."

Horvat, a native of London, Ontario, had been in Vancouver's organization since being drafted No. 9 overall in 2013 — ironically, with a pick that Lou Lamoriello, while with the Devils, traded the Canucks for Cory Schneider, a current member of the Islanders organization. He was the team captain with the Canucks and, going into last summer, envisioned himself spending his career in the Pacific Northwest.

"I thought I was gonna be a Canuck for life, to be honest with you," Horvat said. "Things didn't work out that way. It led me to this, so I'm grateful for that. I'm grateful that the New York Islanders really believe in me. I'm proud to be a New York Islander right now. Can't wait."

Nostalgia aside — and with the Canucks coming to Long Island right after the All-Star break, there will be plenty of room for it down the line — Horvat

FAMILIAR FACES:

Even though Bo Horvat has spent his entire professional career with the Canucks, he has played with fellow Islanders Jean-Gabriel Pageau, Mathew Barzal, Josh Bailey and Ryan Pullock for Team Canada.

USA TODAY Sports

is with the Islanders to fill a need that in large part comes down to scoring.

He already has 31 goals this season, tying his career-high, and will immediately slot in on the top power play for a unit that entered the All-Star break on a 3-for-64 dry spell. And he has some experience playing with Jean-Gabriel Pageau, Mathew Barzal, Josh Bailey and Ryan Pullock from Team Canada at World Championships.

"I'm gonna try to do whatever I can to help that [scoring]," Horvat said. "Obviously there's gonna be pressure on me no matter where I go. I've had that pretty much my whole career being in Vancouver, being the captain and stuff like that."

Giants O-coordinator Kafka to interview with Cardinals

By RYAN DUNLEAVY

Mike Kafka continues to be one of the hottest commodities on the coaching market.

The Giants offensive coordinator will interview to be head coach of the Cardinals, according to multiple reports. Kafka already met with the Panthers (who hired Frank Reich), the Texans (who called him back for a second interview) and the Colts about their head-coach vacancies.

Kafka's decision to leave the wing of Chiefs head coach Andy Reid and the comfort of quarterbacks coach and pass-game coordinator for Patrick Mahomes in order to be a first-time play-caller under Giants head coach Brian Daboll has worked out brilliantly. The popular mold for NFL head coach is the young, offensive-minded, quarterback guru, and the 35-year-old former NFL journeyman third-string quarterback fits the bill.

The Cardinals reportedly already have interviewed eight candidates (seven of whom remain available) on a list headlined by Sean Payton but are expanding their search to include Kafka and Bengals defensive coordinator Lou Anarumo, a Staten Island native who was a Giants assistant coach in 2018. The Giants ranked No. 16 in scoring (21.5 points per game) this season after ranking last over the previous two years combined.

Ex-Dallas OC lands quickly with Chargers

By JOE REEDY

The Chargers agreed to terms with Kellen Moore to become offensive coordinator on Monday.

Moore spent the past eight seasons with the Cowboys, including the past four as the offensive coordinator, but it was announced on Sunday night he would not return.

Moore replaces Joe Lombardi, who was the Bolts' coordinator for two seasons under coach Brandon Staley. — AP
